Wednesday night, at 8 p.m., the Monterey County Planning Commission will hold a public hearing in the Salinas city council chambers. Purpose of this hearing will be to listen to the opinions of Monterey County residents on the granting of a special permit allowing Humble Oil Company to build an oil refinery at Moss Landing.

For weeks, the Citizens for Clean Air organization has been circulating petitions against the proposed refinery. Over 13,000 persons have signed these petitions which will be presented at the hearing. There are still a few days left if any person wishes to sign, or circulate, a petition. Letters to the county planning commission may also be written. Also those desiring may appear, in person, at Wednesday's hearing, or send a telegram.

The Carmel city council and planning commission have urged the county planners not to allow the refinery until the strictest possible air and water pollution law possible is passed by Monterey County.

The Carmel Business Association, the Carmel Motel Association, the Carmel Board of Realtors have sent letters to the county protesting the refinery. The Sierra Club also opposes the refinery.

These bodies all recognize that any threat to the purity of the air is also a threat to the prosperity of this community and the enjoyment of life in one of the most scenically beautiful areas in the United States. That there might be water pollution, too, from any refinery is a horrifying prospect.

Unfortunately, not all residents of Monterey County acknowledge the threats to the county's well being. In some localities, the tax revenue from an oil refinery and the prospect of the circulation of the salaries of employes outweigh preservation of clean air.

This is sad, deplorable.

What residents of these areas do not realize is that the revenue from thousands of visitors and hundreds of residents who are attracted to our county by its beauty, clean air and water, year after year, far outweighs the revenue from an oil refinery.

But there is still time to sign a petition, or write a letter, or send a telegram, or go to Salinas on Wednesday.

The future of Monterey County is at stake.

In the past year, Samuel F.B. Morse, above, has been honored by the Sierra Club of California and, more recently, by the Senate of the State of California for his contributions to conservation. As president of Del Monte Properties Company, Mr. Morse preserved the natural beauty of the Monterey Peninsula while developing land owned by his company. By protective covenants, he has saved the coastline owned by Del Monte Properties in its natural state for posterity.

Both the California Senate and the Sierra Club honored Mr. Morse as a pioneer of open space and greenbelt development of private land.

His vision and courage have enriched not only the Monterey Peninsula but California and the United States. Carmel residents, in particular, have benefitted from Mr. Morse's preservation of the northern coastline of Carmel Bay and the open space bordering Carmel Beach provided by Pebble Beach golf course.

"Sam" Morse first visited Carmel in 1908. He knew almost all

City Tax Rate May Be $1.29 --Up 23 Cents

"I congratulate you on your courage," Mayor Herbert B. Blanks said to other city councilmen last night after the adoption of the city's 1965-66 preliminary budget which will result in a possible 23 and three-tenths cents per $100 property evaluation rise in the municipal tax rate.

He added that it would be hard for members of the council to face citizens who may complain "You sure raised my taxes."

"We are raising our own, too," Councilman James C. Buffington emphasized.

The new tax rate is based on a total preliminary budget figure of $750,779. This amount is $62,657 higher than the amount of last year's adopted budget for which the 1964-65 tax rate of $1.06 was set.

According to a report prepared by the city's finance officer, Arthur M. Plaxton, and presented to the council last night by City Administrator Hugh Bayless, the two heaviest additional operating charges for 1965-66 are the city's employee salary and redesignation plan ($13,758) and the cost of operating Sunset School as a municipal cultural and community center ($20,791).

Although these 1965-66 costs will be prepaid from unanticipated additional revenue from various sources during the fiscal year which ended on June 30, " it is an inescapable fact that for some years past the property tax rate has not been adequate, even when augmented from other sources of revenue, to pay the day by day

POLICE CRACKDOWN ON LOUD MUFFLERS

Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann announces that the police department is starting a campaign to stop excessive noise created by loud mufflers on motor vehicles. A delegation from the Carmel Motel Association complained to Chief Klaumann that noise from car and motorcycle mufflers is causing discomfort to guests in Carmel hostelries. Carmel citizens have also complained about the noise nuisance.

Planners Advise On Convalescent Home Just Outside City

Yesterday, Carmel planning commissioners recommended that the former Community Hospital annex on Santa Fe Street, just outside the city, not be permitted to be used as a convalescent home without provisions regulating the number of occupants and off-street parking. Suggested as desirable, was that the number of occupants be compatible with the adjoining residential area and that the land used for the convalescent home not be greater than the land area occupied by the original hospital annex.

A public hearing on the request for the convalescent home, from John Kuenzli, will be held by the county planning commission in Salinas on Wednesday at 3:20 p.m. Most recently this property was

Bach Festival Reviews

By Douglas Taylor

Reviews of the Bach Festival events until last night's 11 p.m. concert at Carmel Mission Basilica are included in this issue of the Pine Cone. The Mission presentation of Heinrich Schuetz's "The Christmas Story" and tonight's concert, The Italian Concerto and it Culmination, will be reviewed in next week's paper.

OPENING CONCERT JULY 16

At precisely 8 p.m. last Friday night, the traditional heralding trumpets set the atmosphere for the 28th Bach Festival and continued playing from the window above the entrance as music lovers streamed towards and into Sunset auditorium.

Sandor Salgo, conductor and music director, must have been proud of his orchestra, chorale, chorus and soloists. Combined under his dynamic direction they thrilled the capacity audience with a superb all-Bach opening night concert in which intonation and balance were excellent.

Starting with "Cantata No. 1," a happy choice, it was immediately obvious that rehearsals had been efficient and now highly effective. The honors in this work went vocally to the chorale and chorus. The first soloist was Tommy Goleeke, whose pleasant light tenor voice was affected by first-night nerves. He blended well in his duet with Pauline Law in the "Magnificat," of which more later.

Carole Bogard sang her aria charmingly. Her voice will be discussed in other festival reviews, also that of William Felber who had little to do in this cantata.

How well thought out it was to conclude the first half of the program with the "Concerto for Harpsichord, Recorders and Strings in F Major." This was performed beautifully by that "doyen" of the festival, Ralph Linsley, and the elegant pair of recorder virtuosi, Roberta and Colin Sterne.

After an intermission, came the

'Ernie' Morehouse Is Leaving Carmel

Ernest F. Morehouse, semi-retired since May 1, when he turned over his real estate and insurance business to Enos Fouratt, is now officially "at liberty."

After 35 years in Carmel, "Ernie" and his wife, Gertrude, will pack up their belongings next Wednesday to move to Walnut Creek, where they have bought an apartment in Leisure World. While they both readily admit it is difficult to pull up their roots after so many years, they look forward to enjoying the ease of living in their new surroundings. Leisure they certainly deserve, for they have worked in and contributed much to the community.

The Morehouses came to Carmel from Richmond, California, in 1930. For a number of years Mr. Morehouse was associated with the California Automobile Association (AAA) in Monterey. In the late

Carmel Firemen Celebrate 50th Birthday With Three-Day Party

Oldtimers, newcomers, tiny tots, teen-agers and even tourists shared in the memorable three-day celebration put on by Carmel firemen last weekend in honor of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. There were many firemen from neighboring cities involved in the community celebration, too.

Following the equipment demonstration on the Sunset ballfield on Thursday evening, Carmelites thronged to the open house at the fire station. Particularly in evidence were children of all ages sporting red fire helmets and junior fire marshal badges given to them by Carmel firemen. The youngsters also enjoyed ice cream, cake and "pop" served by Carmel Youth Center members from the Bingmobile loaned to the firemen by the youth center.

Members of the teen-age recreation center also prepared gallons of hot coffee for adults.

Friday evening's celebration started with a hosecart race. Carmel's team was beaten, by seconds, by the team from the Carmel Hill state forestry station which made the quickest dash from the fire station on Sixth street down Mission, along Ocean, up San Carlos, then hitched the hose to a gold-painted hydrant and used the resultant stream of water to knock a barrel off a tres-

No. 117

The habits of youth, we were told were uncouth,
With chidings from parents and teachers.
Both written and oral, these things were immoral,
Fit only for animal creatures.

That's why these distractions, like nail-biting actions
Or eating with mud-begrimed fingers,
Arouse exhibitions of deep inhibitions,
With guilt, and the memory lingers.

But now we are grown, we discover we're prone
To regard certain habits as banners:
Like habits of vision to make a decision,
Or the habit of civilized manners.

The habit of caring for loved ones, and sharing
With others the pleasures of giving;
This all adds to sensing the joy of dispensing
The habit of bountiful living.

D major "Magnificat." The first soloist, Lois Varga, sang with authority—a fine, firm mezzo soprano voice — followed by Marie Gibson—what a delightful singer. In his first appearance here, the bass, Ara Berberian, showed an incisive clear production which is of operatic calibre. At this stage of the festival, a reflection was that, in some of the solo and group singing, the intrusive aspirate marred roulades during the "Cantata" and "Magnificat."

Edward Jameson, a tenor new to the festival, sang with great virility the aria 'He hath put down the mighty" and made a considerable impression.

The contralto aria was performed by Pauline Law who has a lovely voice and a most relaxed and poised platform presence.

The terzett was sung with good balance by Mary Esther Nicola, LaVonne Smart and Arlene White.

This magnificent work closed with the "Glory to the Father, Son and Holy Ghost" to tumultuous applause and many recalls of the solo artists and Maestro Salgo who called upon Edward Haug, trumpet, to accept his measure, also Raymond Duste, who proved his sterling worth with the oboe d'amore, and, of course, Concertmistress Rosemary Waller, who was her usual tower of strength.

Opening night provided an evening inspired by the great personality of Sandor Salgo, surrounded by dedicated people in many ways, thus making the Carmel Bach Festival again a significant contribution to the world of good music.

"ORFEO"

This fine evening performance of Monteverdi's "'Orfeo" had a "curtain raiser" in the form of a most interesting lecture by Dr. Raymond Kendall in the morning. He spoke in All Saints' Parish Hall with great authority and wit to a capacity audience anxious to know more about this unique opera.

The production at Sunset auditorium in the evening proved to be a furore, much to the relief and pleasure of Mel Taylor and those concerned in the staging, designing, choreography and direction, as putting on a full opera is an innovation for the Bach Festival. This team is to be congratulated on coping so successfully with the many obvious difficulties regarding space and lack of facilities which the normal theatre inherently has.

Sandor Salgo conducted the very specialized orchestra, chorale and soloists with his usual masterly control. The delightful and poignant music was extremely well performed.

Charles Bressler, in the title role, gave a brilliant portrayal which earned him a rapturous reception at the end of the show. He has a tenor voice of considerable range and power and sang with great feeling and intensity.

Euridice, the cause of Orfeo's extreme misery and joy, was in the experienced hands of Eleanor Bailey who was so sweet in appearance, expression and voice.

Carole Bogard opened as La Musica in the prologue and moved gracefully, looked lovely and sang pleasantly.

There are 18 soloists in the opera so I will not discuss those who have been previous festival soloists. The fact that they are here again proves their capabilities.

Some artists were doing solo work for the first time in the 28th festival. Tommy Goleeke, who was in the opening concert, in the opera had overcome his initial nervous responsibility of being the first solo voice in the festival and sang with good, secure tone as the First Shepherd in "Orfeo."

Carole Burch was Speranza. She has a delightful appearance and a mellow, rich contralto voice.

Another new contralto, Marvellee Cariaga, was impressive, histrionically and vocally, as the Queen of Hades and well matched the voice of the King of that underworld realm, Ara Berberian, bass.

James Hull sang well as the Second Shepherd and we are glad that a Peninsula singer is with us. Another, Norma Jean Hodges as Ninfa, added lustre to the opera (she dances, too).

Space precludes any further detail but the following excellent singers contributed to the success of "Orfeo"—Jacquelyn Lang, Robert Bernard, Arthur Holcomb, Robert Olson and William Felber who appeared in the opening concert as did Edward Jameson who was a dignified Apollo in the opera.

Marie Gibson was Messagera and Pauline Law was Shepherdess.

The "Orfeo" experiment was highly successful and the audience on Saturday night enjoyed a delightful evening of opera at Sunset auditorium.

"ST. MATTHEW PASSION"

The first festival performance of this wonderful work took place on Sunday afternoon in Sunset auditorium at 2 p.m.

It was a profoundly moving, spiritual experience. The singing of the chorale was almost unbearably beautiful. The orchestra provided perfect accompaniment and the chorus amplified to great heights of power under the gifted baton of Maestro Salgo.

Dominating the principal soloists, Ara Berberian sang the part of Jesus. He was superb. His voice was rich and deep, sustaining a fine legato line and impeccable diction. His bearing was dignified, whether singing or sitting still. The latter was no mean feat as for the greater part of three and a half hours, he did not sing.

The previous evening in "Orfeo," he introduced a certain harshness into his tone, dramatically just right for Plutone. In complete contradistinction was his Jesus with a quality of tone quite different. Ara Berberian is a great artist.

Again the audience had the pleasure of hearing James Schwabacher, this time narrating as the Evangelist. Every word was clearly enunciated and two passages in particular, "And wept bitterly" and "Also crucified" were sung beautifully. His soft singing was most effective.

The contralto in the "St. Matthew" score has much singing to do and Pauline Law accomplished this in great style. She sings with deep, sympathetic feeling and her voice is so right for this music—true, steady and of a lovely timbre. She is a fine musician and a splendid Bach singer.

So is Marie Gibson who sang the duet with her and the chorus. Marie Gibson has wonderful breath control and a delightful voice and sang flawlessly. She was visibly affected by the beauty of the chorale, as were very many others present.

The young tenor, Edward Jameson, sang his difficult arias with considerable technical ability. He has a pleasant voice and as he develops should "go far."

Robert Oliver was not in his best form. (The previous evening in "Orfeo" he was extremely poor as Caronte). His voice, since last heard here, has deepened to a full bass but in the four arias in the "St. Matthew" performance he seemed to have to force his tone, except in the last "At evening hour of calm and rest" which he sang quietly and effectively.

The parts of Peter, Judas and Caiaphas were sung most incisively and with excellent tone by, respectively, Robert Bernard, Robert Waterbury and Herbert Cabral. Pilate was sung by William Felber who appeared the first night in the "Cantata No. 1."

The High Priests were Vincent Russo, William Feuerstein and Bruce Grimes. The leader of the chorale, Katherine Schlinger, sang Pilate's Wife.

Instrumental obligato performances by various talented artists included Gretel Shanley impeccably playing the flute with the soprano solo "In love my Savior is dying," also Raymond Duste, Rosemary Waller, Ralph Linsley and Kenneth Ahrens, plus the many others who provided accompaniment.

The "St. Matthew Passion" was a memorable event and evoked a spontaneous standing ovation when it ended shortly after 6 p.m.

RECITAL, JULY 19

The first recital of the 1965 Bach Festival was given at All Saints' Parish Hall on Monday at 11 a.m. Roberta and Colin Sterne with their fantastic historical instruments — cromornes, citterns, recorders, lutes, Baroque flutes — provided, with Hazelle Miloradovitch, viola da gamba, a delightful program of music by Barbireau, Dufay, Brumel and Thomas Morley.

The singer was Mary Esther Nicola, soprano, who sang four songs by Caccini (1546-1618) — a charming group. Her voice is lyric in quality and her flexibility and intonation were exemplary. The roulades had no trace of the intrusive aspirate to which I referred regarding some of the first night's singing, and she has a very gracious and pleasant platform personality. She sang later, the Monteverdi "Et e pur dunque vero" and the recital closed with a sonata by Jean-Marie Leclair. Roberta Sterne also played the harpsichord accompanying the viola da gamba and baroque flute.

A most pleasant morning!

CONCERT, JULY 19

How wise the program planning was to follow the solemn grandeur of Sunday's "St. Matthew Passion" with Monday's light-hearted selections of the "Suite No. 2 for Flute and Strings" and the "D minor Violin Concerto," both by Bach, also the pastoral, "Acis and Galatea" by Handel!

Gretel Shanley played the flute in a most accomplished manner, also looked charming in her elegant evening gown and appropriate coiffure.

The suite is a succession of varied dance movements in many different styles and this delightful performer was warmly applauded.

The "D minor Violin Concerto" which followed had Eudice Shapiro to perform brilliantly this difficult work. This distinguished musician has great authority and attack. Her whole performance was a veritable "tour de force" which the audience recognized by a great ovation, "bravos" and other exclamations of appreciation.

After the intermission, came the "Acis and Galatea" pastoral by Handel, a work brimming with good humor and fun. The whole company entered into this spirit. The audience soon realized the situation and the total atmosphere in the auditorium was pervaded by a feeling of jollity.

Carole Bogard as Galatea sang beautifully. Her trills were quite perfect and her appearance, as always, delightful. Her voice is pure and her diction beyond reproach.

Acis, metamorphosized from Saturday's Orfeo, was Charles Bressler who gave a similar virile and vigorous performance. His last few dying phrases were sung in a lovely mezza-voce tone as the lighting suitably was faded. This gave great impact to this deviation from general jollity.

Robert Oliver, as Polyphemus, was terrific. He tore the place down with a magnificent rendering of his great recitative and aria "I rage, I melt, I burn" and "O ruddier than the cherry."

His bass voice, deep and resonant, thundered throughout the auditorium. He was in tremendous form. The audience broke into spontaneous applause.

Damon was sung capably by James Schwabacher who expressed a sardonic sense of humor both vocally and facially—to excellent effect.

The chorale, as always, was a tower of strength. The orchestra opened the work with a cheerful sinfonia which set the feeling of this delightful masque. Several members — Raymond Duste and the Sternes—contributed obligatos to enhance various solos.

The whole evening, guided and directed by Maestro Sandor Salgo, was a delicious feast of fun and delight.

RECITAL JULY 20

The audience for the recital by Eudice Shapiro, violin, and Alice Ehlers, harpsichord, filled All Saints' Parish Hall. After opening with Haydn's "Sonata No. 1 in G," these two brilliant musicians performed two sonatas by von Biber, "Crucifixion of Christ" and "Reserrection of Christ" with Irene Sharp providing an efficient and unobtrusive cello continuo.

Eudice Shapiro used a different violin for each sonata. In the latter she played an abnormally tuned and stringed violin to give a different tone quality which was most interesting.

Then the program moved back to Bach in his "Sonata No. 4 in C minor" with the serenity of the "Siciliana" opening movement through the spirited final "Allegro" and the audience's reaction of prolonged applause.

It was inspiring to hear these masters of their instruments in chamber music. We are fortunate to have them at the festival.

ORGAN RECITAL JULY 20

A remarkable organ recital by Ludwig Altman and the 12 singers in the festival chorale, directed by Priscilla Salgo, was given at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Monterey where the organ is one of the few in existence suitable for the performance of Bach's "Clavieruebung." Ludwig Altman is playing Part 3 of this monumental work in its entirety in two sections, one on Tuesday, another Thursday.

After the opening "Prelude in E flat major", the "Kyrie" was sung by the festival chorale ably conducted by Mrs. Salgo. Then the organ was played in two successive different styles on the theme —a large version with pedal obligato and a short version for manuals only. This style was also applied to the following "Gloria," "Ten Commandments" and "The Creed" — except in the "Gloria" there was an additional trio form organ version.

The whole performance was very impressive. Ludwig Altman played with distinction and the singers were, as always, in excellent balance with good intonation.

CONCERT JULY 20

The Tuesday evening concert was devoted largely to soloists and opened with Bach's "Sonata for Flute and Harpsichord No. 1 in B minor" played by Gretel Shanley, flute, and Alice Ehlers, harpsichord.

In this duet of the two instruments, Gretel Shanley, who also opened the concert the evening before with a suite accompanied by orchestra, gave those who wished to hear more of her flute playing the opportunity to hear her every single note accompanied by Madame Ehlers. Clad this time in a black gown with lace stole, Gretel Shanley looked charming and performed with great dexterity. She was warmly applauded.

In the "Sonata for Solo Violin No. 1 G minor" there was no accompaniment, so the audience heard the full tones of Eudice Shapiro's violin in an astonishing display of virtuosity. Previously she had only been heard with orchestra or harpsichord. Her unaccompanied playing received shouts of "bravo" from the audience which repeatedly recalled her.

The vocal part of the program consisted of Bach's "Sacred Cantata No. 32 (Liebster Jesu, mein Verlangen)." Marie Gibson sang the first aria with Raymond Duste providing an impeccable oboe obligato. Then Rosemary Waller furnished a lovely violin obligato for the bass soloist, Ara Berberian. The two singers next combined in a heavenly duet and the chorale closed the cantata triumphantly.

The soloists could not have been more perfectly chosen for this beautiful work. Each had a spiritual quality as well as a fine voice. We know Marie Gibson from previous appearances and now Ara Berberian has won festivalgoers hearts and admiration with his great voice and charm.

This cantata was a transcendental experience.

After the intermission, that virtuoso of the harpsichord, Alice Ehlers, returned to play the "Concerto in the Italian Style" in three movements and gave an example of perfect control "par excellence." She played most brilliantly and at the end of the concerto the audience reacted with tremendous applause, stamping of feet and loud shouts of acclamation.

The concert concluded with the familiar "Brandenburg Concerto No. 6." We were sorry that Eva Heinitz was ill and could not appear. Hazelle Miloradovitch moved into the first viola da gamba place and Sally Kell deputized for Hazelle. The other performers were Rolf Persinger and Dennis Lufkin, violas; Ellen Dessler, cello; Mary Bresler, contrabass; and Ralph Linsley, harpsichord.

Apart from a few deviations from perfect intonation in the second movement, "Adagio con troppo," this well-loved concerto was executed with precision and admirably conducted by Sandor Salgo. It received hearty applause from a delighted audience.

'Brigadoon' Opens Tonight At White Oaks Theatre In Valley

"Brigadoon" opens tonight at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre. The second offering in the theatre's summer season of musicals, "Brigadoon" was written by Alan Jay Lerner with music by Frederick Loewe, and has taken its place as one of the major classics of the musical theatre. Its authors became famous overnight and went on to create "Paint Your Wagon," "Gigi," and, of course, the immortal "My Fair Lady." A romance set in the highlands of Scotland, the score of "Brigadoon" includes such hits as "Almost Like Being in Love," "There But for You Go I," "Come To Me, Bend to Me," and "The Heather on the Hill."

Performed by the members of the White Oaks resident company, "Brigadoon" is directed and choreographed by Gale Peterson. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings until August 8, in the widely acclaimed new theatre located on Carmel Valley Road.

Also playing every Saturday through September 4 is Theodore Hatlen's delightful play for the younger family members, "Off With His Honorable Head." Curtain time every Saturday is 2:30 p.m. and it is wise to make reservations well in advance, especially for large groups and birthday parties.

Tiny Sara Bouhaben, flower girl and sister of the bride, peeks beneath the joined hands of newlywed Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Clayton to help cut the many-tiered wedding cake in the picture above. The bride, the former Diane Jean Bouhaben, whose marriage took place at Carmel Mission Basilica on Saturday, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Henry Bouhaben Jr. of Pebble Beach. For the afternoon service, read by the Reverend Edward Rowland, the church was decorated with arrangements of white chrysanthemums and gladiolas and tall tapers.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Diane wore a traditional wedding gown of natural colored linen, styled along simple lines and trimmed with imported Irish lace. The same lace trimmed a full court-length train. A matching Dior bow secured the two-tiered fingertip length silk illusion veil to her hair, and she carried a bouquet of small white roses and stephanotis.

Nancy Bouhaben was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids included another sister, Lynne Bouhaben, the bridegroom's sister, Kathleen Clayton of Piedmont, Carolyn Mohn of Berkeley, Jo-Anne Harbour of San Marino and Marcia Green of Los Angeles. They wore similar floor length gowns of yellow linen made with straight skirts and square necklines, with satin sashes ending in long streamers. Matching bridal rings with veiling adorned their hair and they carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Three and a half year old Sara and her sister, Suzanne, a junior bridesmaid, were dressed in long yellow linen frocks with eyelet embroidery on the sleeves and neckline and sashes of satin ribbon with long streamers. Each had a yellow bow in her hair and carried a nosegay of white and yellow roses.

Jesse Urrusuno of Eagle, Idaho, was best man for his nephew. The ushers included the bride's brothers, Robert and Scott Bouhaben, Stephen Onderdonk of Pasadena, Kenneth White and Robert Jones of Piedmont, and the bridegroom's cousin, Richard Blair of Orinda.

Mrs. Bouhaben greeted guests wearing a blue and green print. A royal blue bow was in her hair, and her flowers were orchids.

The bridegroom's mother chose an olive green brocade suit, with which she wore a matching pillbox and a corsage of orchids.

Diane, a graduate of Piedmont High School, received her diploma in June from the University of California at Berkeley, where she was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She is a member of the Magnolia Junior Branch of the Children's Hospital.

The new benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Clayton of Piedmont and the brother of Kathleen Clayton. He is a graduate of Piedmont High School and the University of California at Berkeley, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity, Winged Helmet, and Skull and Keys.

For the reception which followed the wedding, the rooms at Del Monte Lodge were decorated with arrangements of white carnations and stock, and an orchestra played for dancing.

After a honeymoon trip to Southern California, the young couple will make their home in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Mrs. Carlson Home

Mrs. Jehanne Salinger Carlson is back in Carmel this week after a truly memorable trip to France, the land of her birth, to which she had not returned since the age of 15. During her month in Europe, there were many joyous reunions with relatives and old friends and a nostalgic return to her native village of Fesches l'Eglise, which she found almost unchanged. While in Fesches l'Eglise, Mrs. Carlson was entertained by cousins who now own and occupy the house in which she was born.

An exciting event for Mrs. Carlson was the wedding, on June 18 in Paris of her son, Pierre, and Nicole Gillmann. Another was a reunion with violinist Isaac Stern, who graciously arranged a box for her and her guests to attend his Paris concert.

Mrs. Milbourne Retires

One of the first officers of the Womens Army Corps retired from the Army at Fort Ord early this month—for the second time.

Hazel (Mrs. John William) Milbourne, a civil service education advisor at the training center since 1951, was WAAC Service Commander for the Ninth Service Command, with headquarters at Fort Douglas, Utah, during World War II. Following the war, Mrs. Milbourne retired to become the president and general manager of the Milbourne School of Business in Seattle until 1950, when she moved to the Carmel Valley.

During her 15 years at Fort Ord, she has received many honors from the units stationed there. In 1957 she received a lifetime honorary membership in the 759th Tank Battalion. Two years ago Brigadier General James W. Sutherland Jr., then commanding general of Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command, surprised her by unveiling a World War II tank named "Hazel" in her honor.

A farewell party for the dedicated and energetic little woman who has done so much to help the Fort and CDCEC soldier complete his education was given at the post educational center by her staff and attended by a host of Fort Ord and CDCEC friends.

A Note From Katie

A postcard from Mrs. Wayne Schlepp, the former Katie Vosburg of Carmel, reports that she and her husband have bought a house on Lake Kegonsa, 13 miles south of Madison, Wisconsin. "We feel like yo-yoes with our sundry moves," writes Katie, adding that they feel if they can't live in Carmel or in Sussex, England, where they spent six years, it doesn't much matter where they are, although they find their present location very pleasant.

Katie and their son, Vaughan, have taken up fishing, with moderate success. Wayne, says Katie, prefers to stick with his Chinese research.

Young Musician Visiting

A young woman with a special interest in the Bach Festival has been here visiting her great-aunt, Mrs. Jeanie Morgan Klenke, and to attend festival concerts. Mary De Neale Morgan, namesake of another great-aunt, the late M. De Neale Morgan, beloved pioneer Carmel artist, lived here as a child, graduated from Sunset School and attended Carmel High School for a short time.

For the past two years, Mary has been a student at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. The talented young musician received a scholarship there last spring and is now studying piano with Miss Claire James and flute with Walter Subke. She plans to continue her studies toward music degrees enabling her to teach as well as to conduct. Mary's ambitions include performing with a Bay Area symphony, chamber music groups, and, ultimately, having a part in a future Bach Festival.

MRA Conference Delegates

Carmel High School students Kathy Bingham, Cindy and Wendy Grissim were at Mackinac Island, Michigan, last week to attend the second session of a "Demonstration for Modernizing America" conference sponsored by Moral Re-Armament. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gallwey were also local delegates at the session.

Delegations from all over the world are joining students from high schools and colleges in the United States to demonstrate that people of all races, color and creed can live and work together in peace. They will hear major addresses by national and international figures and have a chance to question them following their talks.

Local representatives who recently returned with glowing reports of the first session are Mrs. Walter Tittle, Mrs. Thomas Roper, Mrs. Gordon Lundeen; Tim and Mary Gallwey, and Clifford and Bruce Perry, Carmel High School students. Others from this area are planning to attend later in the summer.

Party For A Visitor

On July 11, Sidney Frohman entertained a number of friends at a delightful al fresco brunch at the attractive house he recently purchased in Carmel Meadows. The party, in addition to gathering together people with a mutual interest in music, provided the opportunity for a surprise birthday celebration for Mrs. W. A. Wattenstein of San Francisco, who was here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ginny Franke.

Another visitor from San Francisco who was among the guests was Colonel Frederick Stutevoss.

Full House At The Wileys

Shangri-La, the Mission Street residence of "Sir" and Mrs. Roger Wiley has been bulging recently with house guests and friends who have dropped by to meet them. "Sir" Roger's cousin, Marian, arrived from Bermuda two weeks ago with her husband, William Blackman, and another cousin, Anne Covington of St. Louis, Missouri, has also been here two weeks. The Wileys have been enthusiastic guides in showing the visitors such attractions as Santa Cruz, Carmel Valley, Big Sur and out-of-the-way places and, in general, keeping things going full-tilt in the way of entertainment.

During their stay here, they have also attended the Church of the Wayfarer, of which Mr. and Mrs. Wiley are active members.

Remember First Festivals

Remembrances of the very first Bach Festivals were recalled last weekend when Adolph Teichert and Dr. Jerome Chance of Sacramento visited friends made here during the 1930s. Adolph and Jerry came to Carmel to attend the 28th festival. Adolph, now president of a heavy construction firm and the father of three daughters, and Jerry, now an optometrist with the Sacramento County Hospital, were closely associated with early festivals.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

WILDERNESS ADVENTURE

Hiking the trails of the Santa Lucia Mountains, camping beside rushing streams, drinking water from cold, crystal clear springs, discovery of Indian caves, swimming in pools bordered by great boulders, moss and fern, evenings of singing, nights of sleeping under the stars—all this, and more, was the happy lot of 15 Girl Scouts, from Carmel and Monterey, during their recent, annual burro-pack trip into the Los Padres National Forest and Ventana Wild Area.

It was an impressive and gay scene as the girls, their counselors and guide, six burros, a mule and a dog, started up the Carmel River trail from their point of departure at Los Padres dam—each girl carrying a full back pack, each burro laden with food for their adventure in the wilderness.

WATER OUZEL

A base camp was established at Buckskin, eight miles up the Carmel River, reached by traveling over ridges covered with sage, through forests of oak, sycamore and madrone and a continual crisscrossing of the rapidly flowing Carmel River. One day, on a trip out from Buckskin, the group enjoyed the unusual experience of watching a water ouzel (that delightful little bird that frequents mountain streams) feeding her young in the nest. The nest, which was built in a small hole in a solid rock wall that bordered the river, was situated a few feet above the rushing current, and was so well camouflaged that it was only during the actual act of feeding (as the parent bird hovered over the nest) that its location could be accurately located.

On another day, out from Buckskin, the girls hiked to the beautiful Ventana Falls, located on the Ventana Creek, just before it empties into the Carmel River. It was here, in the pool below the falls, and farther up the Carmel River, that the group experienced one of their most exciting days of swimming. They swam through narrow passages into a series of pools that make this area one of extraordinary beauty. High above, and silhouetted against the sky, are the rare and graceful Santa Lucia firs, trees found nowhere else in the world, except here within the Los Padres National Forest.

PINE VALLEY

A second base camp was established at Pine Valley, a favorite site with Girl Scouts and others who know the rugged loveliness of the Santa Lucia Mountains. Pine Valley, surrounded as it is by tremendous rock formations, pine forests and numerous signs of former Indian occupation, provided the setting for several events which will doubtless linger long in the memory of those taking part in this annual teen-age wilderness adventure. One evening the group hiked up the great rocks to a large, shallow cave, there to spend several hours singing as they looked out upon the starlit night sky and the dramatic outline of trees and rock forms along the horizon. A day or two later was spent exploring caves, viewing petroglyphs and great flat rocks filled with mortar holes, where doubtless whole Indian families worked together in food preparation. Later this day, the girls held a make believe tribal meeting, each one dressed in a costume they had fashioned from materials found in camp or in the valley.

SPECIAL BADGE

During the days of fun and discovery, the Girl Scouts, the majority of whom were members of Cadet Troop 2070 of Monterey, worked to qualify for a special badge available to those taking part in this particular burro-pack trip experience. A number of sketches were made, one of which will be used for the badge insignia. Members of the group accomplished their requirement of "public service," by helping to clean up debris left by careless and thoughtless campers, in the areas of the beautiful caves. Skills were developed in the handling, saddling, packing of the burros. Trees, shrubs, flowers were identified and their various uses to man were learned. During a period of discussion of "what should a group do in the event it was necessary to evacuate the area," one who was well qualified to give information on this subject was present in Pine Valley. Back country patrol officer, Bill Clark, a member of the United States Forest Service, explained the work of the personnel of the forest service in just such situations.

THE CAMPERS

Accompanying the Girl Scouts, on this the fifth season of such trips made available to qualified, teen-age Girl Scouts, were Mrs. Robert (Lucy) McConnell of Monterey, a veteran Girl Scout worker and leader of Cadet Troop 2070, your Sur Coast correspondent and, as guide and the one providing the burros, Anthony C. Zufich. Girl Scouts taking part were: Mary Jane Porter, Kathy Greenwald, Chris O'Brien, Marcia Sirrine, Carol Sortais, Sandy McCormick, Patricia Aldrich, Karen Tobias, Cherly West, Linda Williams, Marla Martin, Deane McConnell, Teri Concolino, Joyce Laughton and Sue Vivell who served as waterfront director.

The idea for these annual burro pack trips was conceived by those who have come to know and appreciate the vast wild areas that are enveloped in the rugged, yet easily accessible coastal mountains. Your Sur Coast correspondent's introduction to the Santa Lucia's was a memorable one. It was a four-day adventure from the "mountains to the sea"—from Chew's Ridge (situated on the Tassajara Road) to Big Sur. We hiked across slopes covered with carpets of purple lupine, through forests of Coulter pine, madrone, tan bark oak, bay and redwood. We camped at Pine Valley and a night later at Redwood Camp where each bed site had its own great redwood tree standing still and tall overhead. Many more trips, hiking, exploring, enjoying this vast wilderness area quickly followed and our love, appreciation and enthusiasm for this beautiful, close-at-hand, country deepened. Then came the desire to share this enthusiasm and knowledge with others.

THE BURROS

It is truly a happy scene as the Girl Scouts, their guide and counselors, the burros (Jezebel, Cocoa, George, Little Red, Whitie, Snorter, and T.L.C., letters which stand for "tender, loving care") and Kinki, the handsome German Shepherd dog, move along the trails of the Los Padres National Forest and the Ventana wild area. During the course of such days the animals are the object of much loving attention as they are busily engaged with the work of moving food and gear from camp to camp or as they graze about the country.

The success and growing popularity of these Girl Scout trips is largely attributed to the careful, long range planning of the program. Months in advance, the writer, guide and counselors map trails and camping areas, make equipment and food lists. New trails, new camps are visited each season and camp fare is a pleasant balance between dehydrated, freeze-dry and prepared foods and fresh foods, such as meat, vegetables and fruit. A typical meal, on the last night out, was baked ham, potatoes, peas, cold slaw, hot biscuits and pudding.

The experience of getting to know the wilderness areas of the Santa Lucias is a thrilling and rewarding one—just ask a Girl Scout who has explored them with back pack and burro!

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond John Eaton, the former Corinne Dryden Alley, pause at the entrance of All Saints' Episcopal Church following their wedding on Saturday. For the late afternoon ceremony, performed by the Reverend David Hill, the altar of the church held large floral arrangements of pink and white carnations and lighted tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, Rayford Wardlaw Alley Jr. of Santa Fe, New Mexico, Corinne wore a suit of pink textured wool with a three-quarter matching coat faced with white. A white feather toque and pink accessories completed her ensemble, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink and white roses and carnations.

Her maid of honor, Polly Campbell, chose a white coat dress and white accessories. On her hair was a white bow with veil and she, also, carried a bouquet of pink and white flowers.

John Marinkovich served as best man. Seating the guests were Peter Dryden Alley, brother of the bride, and Robert Rhoades, a brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dryden Stuart was attired in a two-piece white wool suit, with which she wore a large-brimmed white straw hat, the crown encircled with a silk band in multicolored jewel tones. Pinned to the lapel of her suit was an orchid reflecting one of the tones in the silk hatband.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Leonard Rhoades, chose a two-piece suit of a textured summer fabric in periwinkle blue with a small draped chiffon hat of the same hue. She wore matching accessories and pinned a white orchid to her jacket.

The pink and white theme of the wedding was echoed in the decor for the garden reception held after the ceremony at Mrs. Stuart's home, where guests gathered to toast the newlyweds with champagne.

Among the out of town guests were James Dryden, Corinne's uncle, and Mrs. Dryden, who are moving from the Midwest to California, and Mrs. Harriet Marsh and her daughter, Patricia, of Santa Fe.

Raymond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rhoades of Carmel Valley, and the brother of George Eaton of Kansas, Robert and Sharon Rhoades and Bunny Eaton, all of Carmel Valley. A graduate of Carmel High School, he is employed at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in Salinas.

Following a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, the young couple will make their home in Pacific Grove. They both plan to attend Monterey Peninsula College.

Art News . . . .

Through July 30 at the Zantman Art Galleries, a one-man show of paintings by a young French artist, Phillipe Marchand, is being shown. He has exhibited in nearly every major city of the world. His style is unique and his sense of color superb. A visit to the Zantman Galleries will make evident why Marchand, still in his early thirties, is considered to be the most promising young artist in France by Jacques Villier, Paris art critic.

August 16 is the deadline for returning entry forms to the Monterey County Fair for competition in the fair's fine arts, crafts and photography shows. The fine arts division includes painting, sculpture and graphics. Submission of work in these divisions of the fair is set for a later date. Fair dates are August 25-29.

Entries for the 25th North American International Photographic Exhibit at the California State Fair (September 1-12) will be received until August 11, according to Howard Kessler, general chairman.

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History announces the completion of new semi-permanent exhibits of Eskimo artifacts from the museum's collections. Many of the objects are of very early date and come principally from collections donated by Ernest deK. Leffingwell, C. B. Phillips, Mrs. Amelie Elkington and Mrs. D. L. James.

In the collection are shown archaeological specimens of uncertain date, however, it is known that the Eskimo has inhabited the north for more than 6,000 years. Being shown are numerous driftwood artifacts and hunting implements of bone and ivory. Perhaps the single most valuable specimen is an extremely rare Eider skin blanket from the Eastern Arctic.

The exhibition may be viewed daily except Monday from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Admission is free.

A chartered bus tour sponsored by the Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts will visit two major exhibitions in the San Francisco Bay Area on Wednesday.

The first stop is to be the Lowie Museum of Anthropology at the University of California in Berkeley to see "Art of the Northwest Coast" and, if time permits, works by members of the various art faculties of the university.

After a sea-food luncheon at Spenger's Fish Grotto, the group will go to the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco to see "7000 Years of Iranian Art." This exhibition was assembled at the behest of the Shah of Iran and is being circulated in the United States under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State and the government of Iran.

Also at the Legion of Honor is an exhibition of drawings from the 17th and 18th centuries belonging to the museum collections.

The tour including transportation, lunch and admission charges will cost $9.00 per person. Anyone interested may make reservations at A.F.A. headquarters on Lincoln Street or by telephoning 624-2918.

Opening Monday in the Community Room of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center is a week-long exhibit of the photographic art of Bandi Binder of Punta del Esta, Uruguay. The show will include locally commissioned portraits by this unusually imaginative portraitist.

Magician, Obon Dancers And Wind Ensemble On Sunday's Free Forest Theater Program

A variety program, featuring a magician, Buddhist Obon dancers, and the Monterey Peninsula College wind ensemble will be presented Sunday at 2 p.m. in the city-owned outdoor Forest Theater by the Carmel Arts Commission. Admission is free.

The magician, William Taylor of San Marino, has performed professionally on television and at Disneyland. A magician for ten years, Mr. Taylor has received the Award of the International Guild of Prestidigitators.

The MPC wind ensemble, under the direction of Henry Smith, will open the program, and will play marches by Sousa, "Battel" by William Byrd, "Music For A Festival" by Gordon Jacobs, and two English folk songs.

Dancers from the newly-organized Monterey Peninsula Buddhist Church will offer traditional obon dancing, which tells the tale of Moggollana, a Buddhist disciple who through the practice of selfless giving achieves the salvation of his deceased mother from the hell of hungry spirit. The joy in his accomplishment is said to be the origin of obon dancing.

Firemen Celebrate 50th Birthday With Three-Day Party

tle. They were awarded a big gold cup with white mice secreted in its base.

Hundreds of persons, many of them children, watched the races and remained for the street dance which followed. The Peninsula local of the musician's union provided a band for the spirited dancing on the gold-painted street in front of the fire station.

Placed on a fire truck, the band played music for older dancers of the community and the "very latest" for the lads and lassies who do the swim, the frug and such. Again youth center members served refreshments from the Bingmobile. And Fire Chief James R. Belvail distinguished himself as a dancer.

Saturday afternoon was the "Big Parade." Up and down Ocean Avenue fire truck after fire truck passed by interspersed with a young ladies drill team from Marina, Marty Artellan's accordion band of youngsters, and the city council in Al Hood's 1909 Pierce Arrow stage. Monterey sent a vintage turn-of-the-century wooden wagon, the Veterans of Foreign Wars their "voiture" and all Peninsula cities bright, red shiny fire trucks and chiefs' cars. A color guard from the Carmel American Legion led the parade and sitting in glory atop one of Carmel's trucks was Mrs. John Chitwood who remembers the days when Carmel didn't have a fire department. In the place of honor on another Carmel truck was uniformed Fire Marshal Robert J. Leidig, one of the founders of the department in 1915 and Carmel's fire chief from 1924 until 1940.

His successor, Vincent Torras, also rode in the parade. He returned from an Alaskan visit in time to celebrate "the fiftieth" with the men he led until 1957.

And as a grand finale, every siren on every truck sounded a salute to the town and its people.

Saturday evening the community gala ended with a dinner dance at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Honored on this occasion were members of Carmel's first fire company. Mayor Herbert Blanks, on behalf of State Senator Fred Farr, presented to these three men — Fire Marshal Leidig, Fred Leidig and Haskell Warren — framed resolutions passed by the Senate of the State of California praising their service to Carmel. Battalion Chief James Kelsey read the names of all firemen who served as volunteers during the past 50 years. Among those seated at the head table were three of Carmel's honorary fire chiefs, Pon Chung, J. O. Handley and Fred Godwin. Missing was Harrison Godwin.

Time and again the several hundred persons at the party resoundingly applauded the firemen who have unselfishly given their time to protect Carmel. Then almost everyone danced, past midnight.

And who was manning the fire station? Neighborly firemen from Pacific Grove.

CAROLE BOGARD TO BE CABRILLO FESTIVAL SOLOIST

A Carmel Bach Festival soloist, Carole Bogard, will sing for the third time at the Cabrillo Music Festival in Aptos, August 20-22 and August 27-29.

With New York tenor Walter Carringer, she will sing the title role in a concert version of Haydn's opera, "Orpheus and Euridice." Miss Bogard will also appear in the Cabrillo Music Festival's first staged opera, Poulenc's "La Voix Humaine." This will be the West Coast premiere of the one-act, one-singer opera in English.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."

This supplication from Psalms will begin this Sunday's Bible Lesson at all Christian Science churches. The subject of "Truth" will be explored with particular emphasis on the teachings of Christ Jesus.

In addition to selections from the Bible, there will be readings from the Christian Science textbook. This passage will be included: "Christianity as Jesus taught it was not a creed, nor a system of ceremonies, nor a special gift from a ritualistic Jehovah; but it was the demonstration of divine Love casting out error and healing the sick, not merely in the name of Christ, or Truth, but in demonstration of Truth, as must be the case in the cycles of divine light" ((Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 135).

Pacific Telephone refunds: how they will be handled

Pacific Telephone will refund to its customers the difference between the new rates ordered by the California Public Utilities Commission and those charged since July 20, 1964. These new rates were ordered by the Public Utilities Commission on June 24, 1964, but were held up because the Company sought unsuccessfully to have the California Supreme Court declare the rate reduction unlawful. This refund is pursuant to an order of the California Public Utilities Commission. The refund will include interest at the annual rate of 6% and applicable Federal Excise tax.

The refund applies:

1. To basic monthly charges for service.
2. To message units which were charged at 4.25 cents each.
3. To certain Long Distance calls between points within California. Those subject to refund include daytime station-to-station calls costing 70 cents or more for the initial period, Night and Sunday station-to-station calls costing 60 cents or more for the initial period and certain person-to-person calls.

REFUNDS FOR SERVICE AT YOUR PRESENT ADDRESS

We will apply any refund due for basic monthly charges, message unit or Long Distance service where appropriate as a credit to your telephone bill. Refunds will be reflected on bills starting with those dated August 2, 1965.

REFUNDS TO CUSTOMERS WHO DISCONNECTED SERVICE OR CHANGED THEIR TELEPHONE NUMBER

Customers who disconnected service or changed their telephone number after July 20, 1964 may be entitled to a refund. In such cases, the Company will mail a refund check to the last known address. Refunds will be mailed starting August 10.

REFUNDS FOR CALLS PAID FOR AT HOTEL, MOTEL AND COIN TELEPHONES

Refunds on charges for certain Long Distance calls between points within California will be made as described above.

Please obtain claim forms from any Pacific Telephone Business Office. Your claim must be presented to our Business Office or postmarked not later than September 11, 1965. The claim form requires that you include the following for each Long Distance call:

The late Roy Chanslor of Carmel and Hollywood, author of The Ballad of Cat Ballou on which the new motion picture Cat Ballou is based, would hardly recognize his creation. He would, however, be highly amused to read about what has befallen his wild but sweet heroine in the German plot synopsis of the film, which is a U.S. entry in the Berlin International Film Festival.

According to Alfred Kay, special correspondent for the S.F. Chronicle, ". . . Berlin has thousands of residents who write graceful English, but the translation of the picture plots, distributed to guests, resemble the direction one receives with Japanese toys . . .

"For Cat Ballou. 'Now Cat himself takes up a gun, angles also, as a pistolaccompaniest, the killer-brother Kid is hunting with him trains. He saves his teacher, although her tender next sticks in the noose already.' "

Mr. Chanslor, needless to say, would find no resemblance between the swinging version of the ballad, sung by the late Nat King Cole, and the original version with lyrics by him and music by his wife, Elayne Chanslor.

Robert "Stevie" Stephenson was dismayed that no one noticed he was flying the French tri-color outside his office on Bastille Day as well as on July 11, when L'Alliance Francaise held its official celebration.

Are Carmel's blue jays just lazy or sensitive about hurting people's feelings? Until last week, Mrs. Edith Kingsley Hamilton didn't have the heart to tell her next-door neighbor, Paul Vial, that the jays he trained to take peanuts from his hands fly no farther than her path, where they drop the unopened nuts before returning to snatch more from his supply.

Usually reliable people have been telling me about the brown bear they saw riding around Carmel in the back of a pick-up truck on July 17. It was a truly big brown bear, they insist. Anyone know any more about it?

I am grateful to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burum of Carmel for letting me know what Phil Stone, travel writer for a Toronto, Canada, newspaper, Globe and Mail, has to say about us all in an article titled "Carmel-by-the-Sea: Paradise At Last."

"A few weeks ago, I found the paradise that has eluded me in earlier travels: Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The town has a charm that is like Greenwich Village with dignity, or New England with the warmth turned on. Carmel burgeons with quaint hostelries tucked beneath the pines and nestling in the hills; it is wall-papered with store after store, all shining and bright, selling everything from the most avant-garde to the most proper British merchandise. And in the middle of each block are foliage-festooned courtyards with outside coffee shops, artists' salons, and little knick-knack places. I hate shopping, window or real, but every store and shoppe fascinated me, whether it sold elegant leather shoes or mink-trimmed thong sandals.

"In Carmel there are, I learned, 45 languages spoken. There is every breed of beatnik and artist. But it is not 3rd and 8th as in New York. It is clean and pretty and if I live to be 65 that's where I plan to retire. Carmel is where, when it gets dark, they literally roll up the sidewalks. Most adults head for their homes, most of which have a fireplace. You light the logs, pour some drinks, chat with some friends, or whisper sweet somethings and the enchantment of Carmel overcomes the tiredness, the tension, the times, the traumas. It brings a peace that re-generates faith that life still can be peaceful and real without the neon lights and the honking horns and the dyed blondes."

We Almost Alarm Time Magazine

Ooooh! Read how Time magazine described our town on July 2 . . . "the almost alarmingly pretty village of Carmel."

The same issue also lauds the Peninsula as "one of the most spectacular golf areas in the world," and there's a full-page color picture to prove it.

Time also sent the Pine Cone a letter giving us permission to reprint what it says about our area. We do so below.

"The Monterey Peninsula is spangled with five golf courses, which are set off by the sound of Pacific rollers soughing in on the rocks and cliffs of a coastline overhung with the etched shapes of the famed Monterey cypresses, which yield nothing in beauty to Italy's justly celebrated sea pines. Deer wander across the golf course near Del Monte Lodge, the sumptuous peninsula hotel. Pebble Beach is a favored course of such diverse luminaries as Dwight Eisenhower and Bing Crosby."

MPVS Activities For July Include Youth Center Aid

At the general meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services for July, members welcomed the return of Mrs. Ethel Wright and greeted new members.

Ruth Blanchard, president, reminded those present that proceeds of July sales from the Thrift Shop in Seaside are being well earned by members of the Carmel Youth Center. Quantities of material have been brought to the shop, but to sustain the entire month's sales, more is needed. The Youth Center is a general meeting place for the juniors of the community and sale of merchandise through the MPVS Thrift Shop is one of the few ways our teen-agers have of gathering funds to maintain their own recreation center.

Miss Blanchard noted that Mrs. William F. Pratt would serve as recording secretary as Miss Irene Palmer has been appointed chairman of The Tombola Mart. Loosely, "Tombola" means in Italian "game of chance." Tickets for this glamorous new "flea market" will be distributed to members at the August meeting and will be available to the general public shortly thereafter.

The one-day fair is scheduled for October 6 at the Monterey Fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Beneficiaries of proceeds will be the Visiting Nurse Association, Cobalt Cancer Fund and Handicapped Activities Unlimited, Inc.

Point Lobos Reserve Announces New Schedule Of Nature Walks

Persons interested in becoming better acquainted with the natural and human history of Point Lobos State Reserve may participate in the summer program of conducted nature walks now in effect, according to Don Rich, reserve supervisor. Jud Vandevere is the park naturalist. Children under 12 years old must be accompanied by an adult.

Sunday walks start with one to Sea Lion Point at 11 a.m. Cypress Grove parking area is the meeting point. During this one and one-half hour tour, tidepool life, sea otters and sea lions are observed.

At 1:30 p.m., starting from the same parking area, there is a one-hour walk scheduled each Sunday through the groves of Monterey cypress with spectacular views of rock and surf.

At 3 p.m. on Sundays, starting at the meeting point in the Pebbly Beach area, two-hour walks along the shore and through pine woods are scheduled.

There are no conducted walks on Mondays. On Tuesdays there are two walks. At 11 a.m. the Sea Lion Point walk is repeated. At 1:30 p.m., a one-hour walk through pine woods into Hidden Beach may be taken. The meeting place is the South turn-around.

Each Wednesday, at 11 a.m., from the South turn-around, a one-and-a-half hour Pelican Point walk covering bird life, harbor seals, plants and geology, is conducted. In the afternoon, 1:30 p.m., from Whaler's Cove parking area, a two-hour walk along the North Shore is conducted to Bluefish Cove.

Thursdays a naturalist is available and nature walks may be arranged by appointment. Inquiries about this service may be made at the ranger station at the reserve entrance.

Scheduled on Fridays, is a repeat of the Sea Lion Point walk at 11 a.m. In the afternoon at 1:30 p.m., a two-hour walk through Carmelo Meadow, around Coal Chute Point to the Pit and Granite Point starts from the Whaler's Cove parking area.

There are three walks on Saturdays. The first, at 11 a.m. is a repeat of the Pelican Point walk. The second, at 1:30 p.m. starts at the Cypress Grove parking area and provides one hour of observing coastal flowers, shrub and pine woods. The last, at 3 p.m., also starts from Whaler's Cove, and gives the colorful human history of the cove area.

In addition to the nature walks, intertidal tours start from the entrance station. These are difficult walks only for sure-footed and appropriately dressed visitors. They are scheduled for July 28, 5:30 a.m.; August 13 and 28, 6 a.m.

COMMUNITY HOSPITAL STARTS NEW BLOOD PROGRAM

The Community Hospital is offering a new blood plan to Monterey Peninsula residents.

Licensed by the state since January as a blood bank, the hospital has now instituted a blood service plan in cooperation with the Delta Blood Bank of Stockton.

Under the plan, whole families can become members and be protected against the cost of obtaining blood from a blood bank by one member contributing one pint per year.

The plan does not replace the Red Cross blood bank program but supplements it, primarily in emergency cases where fresh blood is urgently needed, Dr. Osman Hull and Dr. Jack Daniels, pathologists at Community Hospital, announce. Further information may be obtained by telephoning the hospital laboratory.

PG and E
Pacific Gas and Electric Company

Samuel F. B. Morse Honored By Sierra Club

of the group of artists and writers who settled in Carmel after the 1906 San Francisco earthquake.

In April, 1915, he became manager of the Pacific Improvement Company which had large land holdings on the Peninsula. In 1919, he acquired this company and incorporated it into a new venture which he organized and headed, Del Monte Properties Company. Mr. Morse is now the chairman of the Del Monte board of directors.

One of his interests is painting. He is a member of the Carmel Art Association and has exhibited his work in the association's galleries.

Mr. Morse was born in New England on July 18, 1885, and Sunday was his eightieth birthday. On the occasion of the Pine Cone's fiftieth birthday in February, he sent the paper a letter of congratulation in which he stated that the anniversary of his 50-year association with the Peninsula coincided almost exactly with the fiftieth anniversary of the Pine Cone.

He lauded the paper for standing for a half a century for the preservation of the unique qualities of Carmel despite ever increasing growth.

"I am proud," he said, "of the continued efforts that it makes to maintain the character of the town in so far as it is possible."

The Pine Cone, this week, honors Mr. Morse for his continued efforts to maintain the character of the Peninsula.

Mr. Morse lives in Pebble Beach and maintains River Ranch in Carmel Valley. He graduated from Phillips Academy in Andover, Massachusetts in 1903 and Yale University in 1907. While at Yale he was an All-American football player. His interest in golf led to the development of Del Monte, Pebble Beach, Cypress Point, golf club's, Monterey Peninsula Country Club and another golf course now being built, Spyglass Hill in Pebble Beach. It was these courses, and the tournaments here because of them, that led to the Monterey Peninsula being named the "Golf Capital of the World."

He has traveled a great deal, especially during past years with his wife, Maurine. Recently, after one of his trips abroad he said, "I have never seen any place better than the Monterey Peninsula." And it is the beauty of his beloved Peninsula that he has successfully striven for over 50 years to preserve.

City Tax Rate May Be $1.29—Up 23 Cents

operational costs of the city," the report stated.

Furthermore, the report pointed out, "This shortage has been made up, from year to year, by using various reserves—in 1964-65 approximately $45,000. This year, such reserves not being available, it leaves the city with a choice of increasing its annual income from property tax, or of reducing the services presently being rendered by the city."

The report also stated that the same condition exists in the municipal retirement fund. Last year this expense was partially met by using the entire balance in the fund ($12,625) as the property tax did not produce revenue equal to the cost of operating the fund.

As a result, the present balance in the retirement fund, $6,303, as against a projected cost of $46,504 "illustrates the fallacy of financing recurring annual operation costs from reserves, rather than by raising annual cost from annual sources," the report added.

"As long as three years ago, studies made by the city clerk's office indicated that the basic property tax rate necessary to properly finance the operation of the city, including approximately 37 cents for the Harrison Memorial Library, would stabilize in the neighborhood of $1.25 or $1.30," the report indicated.

The present expense of maintaining the library takes 28.5 percent of the total property tax revenue, $70,032, or 9.3 percent of the total 1965-66 preliminary budget figure, Mr. Plaxton's figures showed.

In conclusion, the report said "It should be borne in mind that having prepaid $34,549 of the 1965-66 general fund operating costs, and in view of the fact that revenue anticipated for 1965-66, from sources other than property taxes, has been at a higher level, the financing of the 1966-67 budget will probably not have available such extra revenue. This being the case, and the operating costs presently prepaid still being in existence, they will constitute a recurring and additional charge on the property tax rate, thus compounding the 1966-67 property tax increase."

"We are faced with the result of a very much increased level in all fields within the city, caused by both residents and visitors," Councilman Eben Whittlesey observed. He referred to "dramatic increases" in the costs of operating the fire department and "fantastic increase" in police department costs during the past few years. The causes for the increased services also increased city revenue, but not proportionately.

"Sooner or later these things catch up. We have been warned year after year that we have never provided capital outlay reserves. We have been living in a tax paradise for years—a fool's paradise—" Mr. Whittlesey declared in respect to the "fantastic" low tax rates in past years

"We didn't look ahead and the administrative staff was not able to present the picture as in the past couple of years. This is a sound budget," he concluded.

Mr. Buffington agreed with Mr. Whittlesey. Past councils had looked at "today not tomorrow" he maintained. "I can see no place to cut (the budget) that would make a material difference in the tax rate." He added that any cut would mean replacement and "we will not get through 1965-66."

"This is not an austere but a mere minimum budget," Councilman Stephen Grant said.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg moved to remove one police car, the fire chief's car, a street department truck and tractor from the 1965-66 budget. This motion died for lack of a second.

"This is a play, in my opinion, perhaps for the press . . . or purely for sympathy," Mr. Grant told Mr. Norberg. He added that the blanket removal of these items was not the act of "a true politician" who would start with the least item and if successful move up the list.

Mr. Norberg also wished to eliminate the $16,000 expenditure for stage lighting in Sunset auditorium.

Mayor Blanks said this cost was necessary to make the auditorium "a usable, rentable proposition."

"It's usable now. The Bach Festival's there," countered Mr. Norberg.

"It's shabby and dangerous, I wouldn't want to perform a show with the present lighting," Mr. Grant interpolated.

Mayor Blanks said the Bach Festival had "begged, borrowed and pieced together" lighting equipment in order to present performances.

The present state of the lighting is at the point where occupants have to "struggle," Mr. Whittlesey pointed out. "It is coming to the point where renters of the auditorium have other choices," he stressed, and the lighting cost remained in the budget.

The actual tax rate will be set by the council in August following a review of the preliminary budget by Mr. Plaxton. The elimination of some costs, also increased sources of revenue, may result in a slight reduction at that time.

PLANNERS OPPOSE ANY OIL DRILLING IN CARMEL BAY

Yesterday afternoon, Carmel planning commissioners decided to pass a resolution next week asking the city council to oppose to the county any drilling for oil in Carmel Bay. The possibility of such development was brought to the Carmel commission's attention by the Monterey Peninsula Area Planning Commission which also opposes the granting of use permits for this purpose by the county.

Henry And Mona Move

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meade Williams are happily established in another house, after, says Mona Williams, years and years in their old home near the former Community Hospital. Their new dwelling, built by their old friend, the late Kippy Stuart, is on Hatton Fields Mesa overlooking the valley and coast.

Apparently imperturbable, Mrs. Williams welcomed house guests on the heels of the moving van. First to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Campbell of New Zealand, who were here for a few days last week. Next came Mrs. Williams' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Buehr, en route, in a round-about way, from their Connecticut home to their place in the Bahamas. Mr. Buehr is the author-illustrator of some 40 books. His wife, a portraitist, has recently had a one-woman exhibit in Connecticut.

The Williamses entertained a large group of friends at a cocktail party yesterday to meet the visitors and see the new house.

Neil's Future Plans

Neil Giarattana, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Giarattana of Hatton Fields, will soon join Fry Consultants, a management counsel firm, in Chicago, where he will undergo training for a future position as a representative of the company in Europe.

Neil, a Carmel High School graduate, majored in international relations at Stanford University and attended Stanford-in-Germany. He received his master's degree in business administration from Harvard in June. Not content with a mastery of the German language, Neil is devoting his month's vacation at home to learning French at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies and plans to continue his French studies at the Berlitz school in Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Giarratana flew to Boston to see their son receive his degree and stayed on to visit friends in the East, where they originally made their home. Before returning to Carmel, they went to Huntsville, Alabama, to see their daughter, Patricia, and her husband, Donald Hitzl.

The party will also serve as a preview of some of the artist's work which is to be exhibited, starting Monday, at the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center. Included in the show are a number of his portraits, distinctive in the use of natural backgrounds, which have been commissioned locally.

SOME VERY INTERESTING NEW LISTINGS

Still stands the forest primeval—
—a redwood forest primeval, to be exact—all around a rustic little house on the banks of an all-year stream. Fireplace, good kitchen with stove, refrigerator. Excellent water system. Separate 2 room, 2 story cabin and workshop. Follow a winding path to the top of the hill (still on your acre) and lo! there's the Pacific Ocean before you. A wonderful weekender only 12 miles South of Carmel for just $17,400.

15 Rugged Acres of Redwoods—
In the Palo Colorado Canyon. Interesting building sites, plus a pleasant, modest home on a nearby acre of redwoods. County road frontage. Another good summer home with real estate investment potential for only $22,500.

Inside the Carmel Fence, A Private World—
For only $33,500 you may have a U-shaped, ranch style house with a lovely living room with fireplace, separate dining room, hardwood floors, two baths, two bedrooms, a TV room, a big kitchen and service room, a separate workshop, a guest bunk room, a terrace with a marvelous bar-b-que set-up—all on a big, completely fenced corner lot with beautiful trees and shrubs.

4-H Spoken Here—
Room for 5 horses, an area fenced for sheep, a chicken pen, 3 corrals, barn and tack room, stalls for 3 horses. Plus several of Carmel Valley's most interesting oak trees. Plus a house finished in rustic paneling, bridge-timber ceilings, huge fireplace, gourmet's kitchen complete with two Chinese woks, and an incomparable view of the Santa Lucias, all on more than two acres for only $45,000.

Carmel Highlands' Spectacular Sea Views—
—from every beautifully draped window in the house. Outside, the exciting Pacific Ocean. Inside, the warmth and charm of rubbed wood paneling, luxurious carpeting, warm hand-made tile on the counters of a kitchen styled for a most particular cook. Two lovely bedrooms and a paneled study or third bedroom. Family dining room. Interesting carpeted entry hall. Could go on and on, but think you should plan to see it if the $55,000 price is in your range.

"The Ornaments of a House are the friends who frequent it"
Many years ago the artist who built this house down by the sea in Carmel chipped this motto into the stone above the fireplace, and it was a happy hearthside for many of Carmel's famous artists and writers. Present owners added another bedroom and bath, now two of each, and the sturdy secluded little house is now rented. Interesting: the property consists of two lots, with the house slightly encroaching on the second lot. One block from the beach, the lots would probably be worth the $37,500 price being asked without the house.

Challenging Building Site
If you can design a house to hang by a skyhook on the side of a hill up above the Highlands Inn, you'll have a magnificent ocean view; and if you can see the possibilities where others overlook them, let us show you this unusual lot as soon as possible. Price is $11,500. Terms if you wish.

Nothing Whatever to Do
To this attractive little contemporary on Santa Rita. Just move right in and enjoy the carpeted and draped living room with its fine fireplace, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths, hardwood floors, all electric kitchen, forced air heating. Completely fenced yard with sunset-view. Near the bus and only 3 years old. Priced at just $29,500.

Above is pictured "And Bowed His Head," the sculpture by Liesel Wurzmann which won a first place in the religious art show at the Church of the Wayfarer. The figures were cast in bronze by the "lost wax" method. Miss Wurzmann collects copper and brass to blend with tin and melts these metals to create her own bronze. Both making the bronze and casting by the "lost wax" method would be impossible, she says, were it not for facilities provided by the Carmel Adult School for classes conducted by James Agan.

Tapestry Takes 'Best In Show' Award In Religious Art Exhibit At The Church Of The Wayfarer

The names of nine award winners in the Church of the Wayfarer Contemporary Religious Art Show have been announced by Lieutenant Kenneth J. Walker, chairman. Judges were Joseph A. Danysh, Robert Nelson and Leslie Emery.

An original tapestry, "Hittites" by Esther Karsner was selected for the "best of show" award.

This tapestry also won the first crafts award. The second crafts award was given to "Joseph's Coat of Many Colors," a collage by Alice Robertson. Carol Weston took third place honors with a pair of applique and stitchery entries, "Mexican Market Place and Chapel" and "Callenda."

The first sculpture award went to Liesel Wurzmann for "And Bowed His Head." Jim Hunolt took second place with "Passion in the Desert." The third place sculpture award winner was John Dykes with "Sanctuary."

In the painting division, "Mission" by Isabel Schrock Barnett placed first. Rollin Pickford Jr. who also entered a picture titled "Mission," was awarded second place. Third place went to Isabel Tavernetti. Her picture is "Spanish Mission."

The religious art show at the church is open to the public daily, 12:30-8:30 p.m., through Sunday. Each year, the Church of the Wayfarer arranges for the show to run concurrently with the Carmel Bach Festival. Mrs. Roger Wiley, Mrs. John Viking and Mrs. Ray Houston are in charge of the 58 persons who are serving as hosts at the exhibit.

CAR STOLEN IN CARMEL ANOTHER BROKEN INTO

Some time between midnight and 6:50 a.m. this morning, her car had been stolen from where it was parked at the southeast corner of Guadalupe and Third streets, Mrs. Suzette Chapin of Pittsburg, California, informed Carmel police early today. The police department immediately issued an all points bulletin for the 1965 gold Pontiac sedan.

At 7 o'clock this morning, Miss Leona Rowe of Long Beach reported the theft of a considerable amount of clothing from her automobile that was parked overnight at Junipero and Eighth.

Other police reports were that an elderly woman had taken a suit from the I. Magnin shop around noon yesterday. The suit was found almost immediately in bushes near the rear entrance of the store.

Mrs. John Gutmann, Torres and Eleventh, summoned police to her home at 11:42 p.m. last night after rocks had been thrown at the house resulting in a broken front window.

CITY OPPOSES FIRE PROTECTION IN URBAN UNINCORPORATED AREAS

Last night the city council passed a resolution asking the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to proceed with the formation of appropriate special service districts so that the cost of fire protection for unincorporated urban areas, such as those adjacent to Carmel, be fairly apportioned to the taxpayers of such areas..

The present provision of structural fire protection in particular areas by means of a contract with the State Division of Forestry, and financed by general county tax revenues, represents an unfair, if not illegal, levy on municipal taxpayers who provide their fire protection from city taxes, and is a gift of public funds to the property owners in unincorporated areas receiving fire protection benefits without a commensurate tax payment, the resolution stated.

used by Bishop Kip School. The proposal was referred to the Carmel commission by the county for recommendations.

Also yesterday, acting Carmel planning commission chairman, Mrs. Florence Josselyn, appointed an ad hoc committee of herself, Commissioner William Godwin, City Administrator Hugh Bayless and Planning Director Floyd Adams to prepare a report for the arts commission. To be ready next week, this report will recommend on the advisability of another commission taking over some of the planning commission's duties.

In a letter, Arts Commission Chairman Barbara Norberg yesterday reported to the city's planners that her commission is requesting the city council to set up "machinery whereby the arts commission could review building plans from the point of view of artistic quality and harmony with Carmel style and character."

"I am very grateful that the arts commission is so interested in what we are doing," Mrs. Josselyn said.

thirties, he entered the real estate and general insurance business for himself, occupying the building which formerly housed the Carmel Land Company on Ocean Avenue between Lincoln and Dolores streets. When a move later became necessary, he continued the business, until his retirement, in his office on Lincoln near Eighth.

Mr. Morehouse is a past president of both the Carmel Board of Realtors and Carmel American Legion Post 512. He was a charter member of the Carmel Lions Club and served two terms as deputy district governor of that organization. With Mrs. Morehouse, he was instrumental in establishing The Church of the Wayfarer and in raising building funds.

An equally generous donor of time and energy to civic causes has been his wife. A tireless worker for the Red Cross, Mrs. Morehouse has served as home service chairman, staff assistant and chairman of the local chapter. Her interest in education is evidenced by membership, with her husband, on the original committee for the high school when Carmel withdrew from the Monterey school district in 1938. She was also active in P-TA and is a past president of the association. In 1935, with Mrs. Frank Townsend, she re-activated the Carmel Girl Scouts with the formation of a Brownie troop. For over 12 years Mrs. Morehouse served on the Girl Scout council and as a leader.

For 25 years Mr. and Mrs. Morehouse have been members of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and have made their home in that area for the past several years. Their daughter, Alice (Mrs. Arthur R. Niece) grew up in Carmel and attended local schools. The Nieces and their two children, Sandy and Val, are residents of Columbia State Park.

Clines Nielson

Private services were held Tuesday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Clines H. Nielson, whose death earlier this week was attributed to suicide.

A resident of Carmel and the coastal area for the past 20 years, Mr. Nielson was born in California on August 26, 1906. Before moving down the coast, he operated a beauty salon in Carmel for a number of years. He was an Army veteran of World War II.

His sole survivor is his wife, Virginia.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements.
